7 OBJECTION KILLERS

The exact words for the 7 things buyers say right before they walk away. Keep this next to you on every sales call.

1 "It's too expensive."

Say: "Too expensive... compared to what?" Then: "If price wasn't an issue, would this be the right choice for you?"

It's rarely the price. It's doubt. Find the real problem and solve that.

2 "I need to think about it."

Say: "Totally fair. What exactly do you need to think about?"

"Think about it" hides a real objection. Ask, then stay silent.

3 "I need to talk to my partner."

Say: "Makes sense. If they agreed, is there anything else that would stop you?"

Collect every objection before you solve any of them.

4 "Just send me more info."

Say: "Happy to. What specifically do you want to see, so I send the right thing?"

Usually a polite exit. The answer tells you what's really missing.

5 "It's not the right time."

Say: "When would be the right time, and what would be different then?"

If nothing changes, the problem just gets more expensive.

6 "Can you do a discount?"

Say: "What would a discount change for you?" If you give something, ask for something back.

Give and take keeps your status. Discounts without a trade train people to haggle.

7 Silence after you say the price.

Say: nothing. Wait. Let them speak first.

Whoever talks first after the price loses. Talking more is over-selling.
